THE NEWSPAPER FOR THE ANIMAL COMMUNITY.. BY ANIMALS - FOR ANIMALS

www.tigger.club

NEWSPAPER DATE: MAY 2018

WHAT NEXT...?

Well here I am. Two years down the road from where I started writing a little diary for my own amusement.

After suggestions from my pals to build a website and publish my musings, things developed organically into what it is today by visitors asking if I was going to add this and that to my website too.

I have added loads of things which should be interesting and amusing everyone that visits.

Now I have this newspaper which seems to be popular and growing in readers every month.

So why the strange title you may ask?

I am reaching out to you my pawsome readers. As a dog that steers clear of human shock/horror/gossip stories I sometimes find it a bit of a struggle to write enough articles to produce a fun filled newspaper for you every month.

This is where you come in. If you have a story, poem, news, recipe or idea you would like to share get in touch with me and it could appear in a future newspaper and on my website.

It could be anything from a hero animal to a story about a dog friendly business opening a new store.

Are you an animal that has a career or goes to work with your human?

Have you have considered having your own blog spot but don't know how to start?

Are you a business that sells or manufactures animal products and want to tell us all about it

Are you a small business that does not have a website?

Whatever you think may be of interest of readers and visitors to the website let me know.

Even if you don't have anything but have a suggestion for some future article, contact me.

My website and newspaper is for the animal community and their well behaved humans.

Thank you all for reading and visiting my website so far, hopefully you will continue to do so and more importantly tell all of your pals too.

To contact me you can email me at tigger@tigger.club

As an optimistic dog I will apologise now in case there is a huge increase of emails in my inbox that may delay any replies BOL!

Nose bump to you

A MESSAGE FROM TIGGER

Hi readers,
This month's fun filled newspaper includes my very first official product review. I was not paid, other than being sent the products free to test.

My review was tested fully and you can read about it in this newspaper.

I did think about keeping it professional but as you all know by now I am an honest dog and any company that asks me to review a product for them, well the honest truth, good or bad, will be published for you all to make up your own minds.

I will always say if I have been paid or receive a product free so there are no doubts or worries of my reviews being biased in any way.

Any businesses still interested in having me review their product, feel free to contact me.

My website is undergoing a bit of an improvement as I have learnt something new. Some of you may not be aware but I am building/improving my website myself with my very own paws.

I must add at this point that my other human was a web designer but I have resisted the urge to ask them for help as I am enjoying the journey of learning how to do it myself.

My daily adventures are currently restricted to my local neighbourhood as my human's car decided that dumping a load of liquid on the drive was necessary to test their stress levels BOL!

Thank you for reading
Nose bump to you

DUSTY'S DIARY

Hi Readers,
She's been doing some training with me that seems to involve baiting me with sausages while on walkies, cos she says I'm sometimes an 'embarrassment' to be out with.

I have no idea what she's talking about.
I do remember some fab walkies where I hurdled a rather surprised large labradoodle, as he was running, to beat him to his ball!

Ah yes and there have been a few times I've chased surfers all the way into the sea. I find these people in their wetsuits carrying what appears to be a body sized floating toy into the sea strangely fascinating, and am desperate to play with them.

The human says I'm lucky the labradoodle's owner saw the funny side of my hurdling, and that the surfers didn't seem to mind too much, but if I want to do off lead zoomies, I need to come back for some sausages instead of zooming off after surfers.

It seems like a pretty good deal.

I don't think the surfers could be even more tasty than sausages, even if I did manage to catch one!

Until next time.
Have a pawsome month

NEWS FROM DORIS - THE ROVING REPORTER

Hi Readers,
I am having a rest from roving for a few weeks and I'm back in my beloved Brighton.

It's a super place for a hound to live and there are a lot of us here.

Since returning I have noticed an increase in whippets ... they're running amok all over the seafront!

Noses in bins, being chased by humans and trashing picnics. Whippets are brilliant fun.

Border terriers used to be the local's choice before I left but I suppose times change Tigger.

Not much else has changed in a year.

I remembered my gate, my apple tree (for ablutions) and my treat cupboard.

Elaine also laughed because I thought I remembered every dog on the promenade, tearing up to each for a reunion.

Obviously their surprise and my misbraking was entirely playful.

I also recalled the route to my regular pub, ok it's only 3 doors away, but still I dragged them in.

I also went crazy when I heard a familiar voice, the humans we very impressed.

My reaction involved levitational barking followed by running on the spot to get to whoever asap.

Our poor dog nervous friend almost had a heart attack but I needed to lick his face bol.

So there you have it, you can take a hound all over Europe for a year but you can't wipe their memories of home!

Being a travelling hound I was fascinated by a local find I'd not visited before, the Meridian Line in Peacehaven, East Sussex. Not only does it claim to divide east and west but it dictates teatime (aka 16.00hrs).

So I took moment to ponder the line, time and my homeland in the west. I read the informative sign and have some facts from it. Here we go... and remember pals, snack time is directly related to this!

There are 4 Meridians that run through Greenwich from the North Pole to South. In 1851 an astronomer called Sir George Airy founded the Airy Line which is now the basis of international time (from now on known as the Teatime Line)

Anyway, here I am on the line, standing in the west. The line marks zero degrees longitude. Interestingly practical British mapping is done by a different line 5.79m to west. Does that mean my bowl position is out of sync with time? One for you quantam hounds.

Many of you may live on this line. It enters the UK just north of Withernsea, N Yorks, and heads south over the Humber.

Passing east of Cleethorpes, west of Cambridge, through Walthamstow, Greenwich and Peacehaven.

It then travels through France, Spain and Africa before reaching the South Pole.

Next time you're tucking into your kibble on time think of Sir Airy, I will be.... and maybe moving my bowl!

See you in Bamburgh pals.

AUTHORS - HILARY ORME

My 'Mum' is Hilary Orme and she is an author.

She currently has four children's books out, all available through Amazon.

They are suitable for children in the eight to twelve age range.

They feature the 'Fearless Five', the central character of course is Dotty the Salty Sea Cat.

I have to confess to not being very fond of water.

My family have two boats, one of which is the 'Fiona', which features in all of the children's stories.

The setting for each of the stories is The Old Harbour, which is based on Lydney Harbour on the River Severn.

Mum started by writing for grown up humans after she had cancer. She gave all of the proceeds from her book sales and talks to Macmillan Cancer Support.

The inspiration for the first children's story came about when Mum was shipwrecked in the Bristol Channel.

In February, she had a short story called 'The Golden Bird of Tuvalu' published in the national, children's magazine, 'Aquila'.

She is now having a rest from writing children's books as she is trying to finish a full length novel about the end of Oliver Cromwell's rule.

You can find out more on our website:

www.hilaryorme.wixsite.com/hilaryorme

Purrs and Fishes,

Love Dotty the Salty Sea Cat. Xxx

Megan Waterfield is not looking forward to the summer holidays, but a cast of unlikely characters come together to make this the most memorable, and certainly the most adventurous, time of her life.

Once you have entered the world of Dotty the Salty Sea Cat, Billy O and Boat Boy Bob, you will not want to leave!

A tale of 'Derring Do' with thieves, shipwrecks and, of course, a most unusual Bengal cat.

Will Megan, Grandma, Boat Boy Bob, Billy O and of course, Dotty, the famous Salty Sea Cat, be able to help Rat Boat Ryan and uncover the truth about the Red Skye?

Can they work together to catch a kidnapper, tackle bullies, carry out a daring rescue and deal with rats ... lots of rats?

All will be revealed in Red Skye Sunset. This not-so-famous five set about solving a new set of challenges with their usual determination.

The adventure is gripping from start to finish.

PRODUCT REVIEW - K9 ORGANICS

I was contacted by a company and asked if they send some of their products, would I like to review them.

I eagerly tore open the package to see what had arrived.

Woo hoo!! ...erm hang on !! What is this? Really ? My very first official almost nearly famous product review...and it's SHAMPOO!!

Now don't be concerned I love the shampoo, it is the compulsory bath that is required to test it that is the problem.BOL!

Read about the testing on page 8

Product Review:

K9 Organics Shampoo

Product(s) Received:

1 x Bottle of Mint Organic Dog Wash
1 x Bottle of Lavender Organic Dog Wash
(both sample size)

Products Used:

Bottle of Mint Organic Dog Wash

Packaging:

Unfussy Clear packaging
Company name and product clearly labelled

Using the Product:

1. Pleasant smell—not too strong
2. Not too much foamy stuff.
3. It was surprisingly soothing when applied.
4. Easy to rinse off.

Personal Observations:

1. Despite the wrestling involved I do feel relaxed
2. My fur feels softer.
3. I smell nice. Not that I was stinky before. I just don't have my normal dog smell.
4. My human does not have wet dog smell on them like other dog shampoos they have used.

5. The bathroom. Although soaked, does not smell of wet dog.

Overall Product Rating:

I was surprised at how relaxed I felt as my human was applying it. It's a pity they followed up with jugs of water!!

Would I buy the product myself:

Are you kidding me? Three baths in three years is more than enough for me. Three more than enough!

Although if I was forced to endure yet another bath then yes I probably would buy the product myself.

About the Company:

K9Organics is a vegan, organic, ethical shampoo producer based in the UK.

More information and how to purchase the shampoo can be found on their website:

INTERVIEW WITH MONTY

Tell me a little bit about yourself.

I'm Monty and I'm a 10 year old English Springer Spaniel living in the Scottish borders.

How many humans/siblings do you have and long have you had them?

Mum and dad adopted me from Springer Rescue Scotland just over 3 years ago.

I'm an only dog.

I did have a 15 year old Springer Spaniel brother called Fergus.

Sadly he crossed the Rainbow Bridge last October.

Do you work? If so where/ what do you do?

I'm a doggy of leisure but I do like to help with chores around the house e.g. 'hoovering' the kitchen floor.

I used to 'sort' the mail but we now have a big cage on our letterbox can't think why, BOL!

If you could choose your name what would it be?

I'm happy with Monty, I think it's a pawsome name.

What is your favourite food?

Anything I can get my paws on is a favourite like bananas, carrots, sardines, horse poo.

I especially like my own vomit as then you get to eat the same meal twice. BOL!

Where is your favourite place to be?

Snoozing on the settee or if on our holidays then playing with a ball on a beach.

What is your favourite way to entertain yourself (annoy your humans)?

Rolling on mum and dad's bed especially after a wet and muddy walk.

Barking at the postman.

I 'sing' as well to mum's piano playing but if the postie appears at the same time, I can't decide whether to sing or bark so I'll try and do a bit of both. BOL!

What is your greatest accomplishment?

I was the March pin-up in the 2016 Springer Rescue Scotland calendar.

And, when I was first rescued I was very overweight, weighing 36kg.

I'm now at my ideal weight of 22kg.

What is your next goal in life?

To work out how to open the cupboard door where my food is kept and also the fridge door.

If you could be/do anything for a day, what would it be?

I'd make it law that the clocks move forward an hour every week, indefinitely, so that I and every other dog get our meals an hour earlier.

Mum says that it wouldn't work and I'd eventually be having my breakfast when I should be having my dinner and vice versa.

Well, I don't see any problem with that. BOL!

Finally and most importantly...What was your human's most embarrassing moment?

I hump cushions occasionally and that embarrasses mum if we've got visitors. BOL!

If you are interested in being interviewed. Email me it at tigger@tigger.club

HEALTH - BATH TIME

Being asked to do my very first official product review has lead to this month's health section focusing on baths.

How often should we be bathed?

Well pals the fewer baths the better I say!

Some humans bath us regularly while others hold an annual event.

Whichever way your humans decide make sure if that if you are to be given frequent baths then they must use a gentle shampoo or it may damage your natural skin oils..

Some humans ask how do they bath us. Well pals here is a blow by blow account of how I get bathed.

This is probably why some humans prefer to send us to dog groomers BOL!

Note: Human is feeling very energetic and eager to bath me

I must add that there are no photographs during this whole saga as my human has not got enough arms or hands to work a camera at this time.

My human and I headed up the stairs to the bathroom. I then decided that 10 minutes of 'catch me if you can' was more appropriate.

My human cheated by bribing me with treats and lifting me up to carry me upstairs into the bathroom.

Note: Human slightly out of breath

What followed next can only be described as the most entertaining saga of trying to put a dog in an empty bath ever.

My human tried to put me in the bath with all four legs and paws stretched out to avoid the white chasm of doom.

As one leg is removed from the outside of the bath to be placed in, the other three jump out again.

At 21kg I am no lightweight to be lifting for any length of time. My human had super strength on the day

Eventually I am in the empty bath with my human holding onto me with a wrestling type grip.

Note: Human definitely out of breath

At this point my human realises that there is a big flaw in the operation.

Both bottles of shampoo are out of reach on the other side of the bathroom!

So we are stood in a sort of stand off. Me in the bath with my human grappling me to keep me there and my human staring at the distant bottles of shampoo as if they are going to levitate themselves towards us. There is nothing else my human can do.

The grip is released to go and get the shampoo.

I make a bid for freedom and jump out of the bath.

Unfortunately my human had closed the door, so I never got very far.

My human moves the shampoo so it will be within reach and then decides to fill the sink with warm water.

Then remembers to move the jug within reach too.

Note: Human slightly out of breath but still eager to bath me

Round two of getting me into the empty bath starts. As before I was not going to make it easy for them.

I must admit though, it did take less time as I am starting to get tired too.

Note: Human starting to look like they need a lie down

My human has to let go with one hand to reach the jug and fill it with water.

This is where they start using their body and neck to 'hug' me to keep me in the bath.

The first jug of water jolted me into crazy mode and I started jumping and struggling about .

After several jugs of water and me jumping about we are both soaked and I am apparently ready for the shampoo.

Note: human is over this whole bath idea but is past the point of no return

My human is now staring at the two bottles of shampoo.

They wait until this moment to decide which one to use? Really?

During their distraction I make another bid for freedom but only half escape.

I am now perched over my human's shoulder dripping loads of water down their back and soaking the only dry spot left on them.

Another wrestling match ensues and I am back in the bath.
Note: human now sounds like a marathon runner after a marathon

They grab the nearest bottle and spend a few minutes wrestling the lid off as their hands are soaking.

They put a thin line of shampoo along my spine and start rubbing it over me.

Then the strangest thing happens !!

I feel really relaxed and stop trying to escape the bath and allow my human to shampoo me.

They were taking no chances and still had me in a form of wrestling grip, but I did not struggle.

I enjoyed the shampoo. It had a nice smell and felt good.

My human was able to shampoo me all over and started to relax too.

Note: Human soaked, tired but starting to relax

Now for the final rinse off. The first jug of water jolted me back into crazy mode and again I started trying to escape the bath.

With water flying everywhere and jugs of water being hurriedly poured over me, I was eventually rinsed off.

My human, who no longer had the strength or energy to hold me, let me go.

I shot out of the bath and shook all of the water off me.

I believe there was not a single inch of dry area left in the bathroom.

Note: Human remembers why they don't bath me often

My human opened the bathroom door for me to go downstairs while they cleared up the chaos and devastation that used to be the bathroom.

I celebrated my new found freedom while my human was busy by having a detour onto the not allowed bed and having a quick roll around to help dry myself off.

Then I raced down the stairs to recover from the whole event.

My human eventually came down stairs after cleaning the bathroom and getting changed.

They brought loads of wet towels and their wet clothes to put in the laundry.

My human looks extremely tired now but I am now refreshed and ready for some play time.

Note: Human collapses on the sofa in a heap muttering 'never again'!

This is a picture of me after my bath. Still very wet but smelling a lot better...well that is what my human said BOL!

INTERVIEW WITH CASSIE

Tell me a little bit about yourself:

Hi I'm Cassie I'm ten week old blue fawn brindle whippet puppy. I came from west Auckland County Durham and now live in shildon with my new daddy Simon.

How many humans/siblings do you have and long have you had them?

I live with my daddy. He got a gf but don't live with me and u got grandad and uncle I sometimes stop with.

Do you work? If so where/ what do you do?

No I'm a pup of leisure lol

If you could choose your name what would it be?

I quite like Cassie but think something fast like flash.

What is your favourite food?

I have been on pedigree chum puppy food but my daddy's introducing me to waighwrigts complete which is yummy.

Where is your favourite place to be?

On my furry big bed next to daddy snoozing or on daddy's knee

What is your favourite way to entertain yourself (annoy your humans)?

Run around with my toys and play fetch and tug of war with daddy

What is your greatest accomplishment?

Think I just become house trained I cry to go out

What is your next goal in life? Get last injection and enjoy the big world outside and start puppy training classes

If you could be/do anything for a day, what would it be?

Play with my brothers and sisters.

Finally and most importantly...What was your human's most embarrassing moment

I chewed my way out my travel crate at uncle Richard this weekend daddy was not happy

READER'S STORY - SPOOKY VISITOR

Hi cassie here. My dad was feeling down and missing my gran that passed last November even before I was born.

So I went of for a few drinks with him. Try cheer him up.

Having a few photos taken as normal dad love taking photos of me, well I am a diva lol, and posted them on social media.

Some one pointed out in my ear I had a face. It was gran coming to tell daddy she fine.

Also next morning we went for a early walk and I had a beam of light on me from heaven.

This had given my dad a lot of comfort as I know he misses gran loads. He believe I was sent by her I think I was. Love my dad loads.

ABOUT THE CHARITY

Wag & Company is a registered charity in the North East of England. We enable volunteers and their dogs to befriend older dog lovers who miss the company of a dog.

Over 50,000 older people in our region are lonely with the TV as their main form of company. Many have been dog lovers all their lives but now find themselves unable to care for a dog. Wag & Company volunteers are dog lovers too and know that it could just as easily be one of us or a family member; life changes fast. So, with just an hour or two a week we provide some company and that much missed love of a dog. By "Walking for Wag", you are helping to make sure that this can happen regularly and safely for the elderly in need across our region.

For more information visit:
<http://www.wagandcompany.co.uk>

ABOUT THE WALK

A beautiful 10km walk (with a 3km wheelchair accessible option*) along the Lakeside Way at the Kielder Water & Forest Park. *accessible with support

Register online in advance and join us on your own or in a group for the Kielder Sponsored Dog Walk, hosted by Northumbrian Water and supported by Arco.

Walkers are always stunned by the spectacular scenery and have a great fun day out whilst enabling a much needed local service at the same time. There are no entry or parking charges but all walkers are asked to raise as much as possible through sponsorship or by making a donation.

Every step you take and every penny you raise will help to make a big difference to the lives of older dog lovers across the North East of England.
