THE NEWSPAPER FOR THE ANIMAL COMMUNITY.. BY ANIMALS - FOR ANIMALS

www.tigger.club

NEWSPAPER DATE: APRIL 2018

BUSINESS GIVES BACK TO THE COMMUNITY

Have you ever been caught short while out for a walk with your human and realised they have forgotten to pick up the poo bags as you strolled out the door?

Then watching as your human frantically searches their pockets for a piece of tissue or sweet wrapper to collect the gift you have left for them on the pavement?

We have all been there haven't we, waiting while humans are rummaging through a litter bin, looking for a bag of sorts?

Well if you're out for a walk with your human through the village of Ryhill and you realise they've forgotten the necessities, fear not.

Just pass by Treats2sit4 on Chapel Street day, night, evenings or weekends and help yourself to a poo bag.

The dispenser is located on the wall outside shop. There is no charge or fee and the added bonus is that they are biodegradable and your human won't be caught out again. Well done to Treats2sit4 for giving back to the community.

PALM OIL

There have been several reports of palm oil washing up around a lot of UK beaches.

It is an oil extracted from plants which is a well used ingredient in food, beauty & hygiene and bio fuel industry.

The waste product is dumped at sea. Where it travels the tides where it comes into contact with whatever pollutants are nearby and bacteria. This creates a very toxic mass.

Then eventually it naturally washes up on beaches.

Now depending on what contamination it has come across during its travels, will depend on what it actually looks like on the beach.

It can appear on beaches as a white, yellow or grey jelly type mass or solid lumps, sometimes mistaken for washed up polystyrene, or even like chalk like lumps.

The main thing to remember is that the oil still smells nice like it's original state and you may be tempted to lick or eat it.

However you must warn your humans that palm oil washed up on beaches is very toxic and dogs that have licked or eaten it are very ill or have died

Stay safe out the fur pals.

A MESSAGE FROM TIGGER

Hi readers, I hoped you are okay after the flurry of snow and gales recently.

I must tell you of how I was tricked by my human. As we were getting ready for work my human asked if I wanted to go on an adventure. I of course was very interested in going so rushed to get ready and jumped into the car.

When we arrived I was full of excitement as to what we were going and what we were about to do.

After a short walk we arrived at our destination. I was shocked, devastated even. This was not an adventure, yes it was a new place to visit, but it was definitely not an adventure. Where had we arrived?

Well pals, let me tell you, we were stood outside a Vet!!

I tried to refuse to go in, but my human insisted. So I reluctantly and under protest entered the Vet.

When it was time to go in to see the vet I stood in protest and refused to cooperate with either my human or the vet.

So the vet ended up crawling around the floor looking at my paws. The vet then got a tool and started chopping off my nails.

The vet fussed over me afterwards and tried to give me a treat but I refused as I was still protesting.

So a word of warning pals, always be wary of talks of unexpected adventure as they may not be as adventurous as your humans make out.

Thank you for reading
Nose bump to you

DUSTY'S DIARY

Hi Readers, There's been lots of odd things happening lately - lots of strange people coming into our house to look around and then leave it.

But most exciting was when my human took me into a strange half finished house to look round and she was all excited about these empty rooms...she says it might be our new home one day soon, so paws crossed cos it was near some amazing walkies!

We had lots of snow - in March, which I loved having a good roll and zoomie in!

The beast from the east washed up lots of octopus on the beaches near me, but I was good and didn't try to eat any of them, although they did look rather tasty.

We also had a fab trip away, to a beautiful part of Scotland, where strangely every peep she met was English BOL!

I had lots of runs on deserted beaches and snaffled a huge amount of sheep poo in one outing, so much she said I didn't deserve any dinner!

I disagreed, and said the sheep poop hadn't filled me up so I needed some sausages, and then I found a seagull skeleton to crunch on and be chased around the beach with!

Until next time.
Have a pawsome month
Dusty

NEWS FROM DORIS - THE ROVING REPORTER

Hi Readers, it's been 12 months and 12,000 miles of Doris adventures.

I'm heading home to my big sofas, garden and local beach. I must say, I'm quite looking forward to it.

What an adventure I've had though, 7 countries, hundreds of beaches and many lurcher escapades.

But what have you learnt I hear you bark? Well, Germany and the Isle of Wight are the most dog friendly places. Northumberland and Portugal have the best beaches. Munich the best pizza and the UK the best pubs.

Of course the pressing question is, who has the best cheese?

Now this is of grave importance to us hounds. I've scoffed a lot over the year and if I can't say cheddar then Spain has it.

Yep, sorry France, Spain has some strong blue cheese and Manchego which I'm addicted to (administered in annoyingly tiny portions).

Cheese aside, there's of course the people.

Everyone, bar three or four, have been utterly delightful. I especially love the no non-sense Germans who let dogs in everywhere!

So it's been a blast and one I want to continue (apparently this may involve a lottery win but that's a mere detail)

Angleterre here I come!

A MYSTERY

I was given a mystery to solve recently.

I was contacted by Cassie, a young brindle poochie, who thanked me for the box of gifts.

Gifts?? I never sent anyone gifts. A mystery was waiting to be solved.

I asked Cassie to tell me what was in the box.

She said there were some bags of treats and a copy of my newspaper.

Ah ha! There was the link, the newspaper. Noe I have only given permission to one company to include my newspapers in their deliveries, so I asked Cassie if she had ordered from them. Alas she hadn't.

This mystery was getting more intriguing as time passed.

I asked Cassie if there was a sender's address on the box, but once again there was no clue as to who sent the box.

I asked Cassie to check the box again. So she did. There in the bottom of the box under some packaging was the solution to this rather pawsome mystery. A friend of a friend Cassie's human has sent the box as a welcome gift.

Hello Cassie and thanks for the pawsome mystery to solve BOL!

BOBTASTIC TAILS

Tell me a little bit about yourselves.

We are Socks and Marley two purrfect cats.

Socks: I am 9 years old.

Marley: I am 7 years old.

Our human is an independent dog walker, small animal sitter.

She has been doing this for 5 years gone August and she loves it.

What was the inspiration for the book?

Her inspiration is her job. A lot of the scenarios are either what has happened to her or have been told to her by her customers, with a little artistic licence thrown in.

Where can it be purchased from?

It can be purchased through Amazon and is available now.

Are there any plans for another book?

Our human has already written another book and is just organising the illustrations.

There is to be a prequel, about Bob as a puppy, again just need illustrations sorted.

A kind human called Michelle from Toonpetz does all of the illustrations for donations to an animal charity,

Do you have any funny or embarrassing stories about writing the books? – especially if it involves your human.

Most of the stories involve the funny/embarrassing bits!

TOONPETZ

Hi, my name is Michelle,

I created my website to help raise awareness and raise money for North Clwyd Animal Rescue - NCAR.

They do great work helping unwanted, abused and abandoned pets, finding them new homes with loving families.

I was introduced to NCAR when I was looking for a new pet dog. My family and I visited the centre where we first met Stars, our beautiful, happy staffy. We fell in love with her instantly. Since then we have added to our collection from NCAR with four kittens and cats.

I found that I could combine my love of animals, sense of humour and a background in cartooning to help support NCAR.

I first started by 'tooning' my own pets and posting them on Facebook and soon had friends requesting that I toon their pets too.

You will also see lots of toons of Winston our slightly overweight pug.

It gave me the idea to use this as a means of helping NCAR.

Things have snowballed from there and I now have a regular stream of requests to toon people's pets.

I really do enjoy learning of their characters and turning this into a toon.

TOY REVIEW—CUDDLEPILLAR

- By RoloHound

There is a new craze taking the hound world by storm.

In recent months hounds have been insisting on the new toy from their hoomans called the caterpillar also know as cuddlepillars.

My caterpillar came from a well known toy shop, yes the shop where little hoo's get their toys.

He is a happy chap with a big smile on his face & is all soft & cuddles you back with his many legs. He cost £24.99.

He is not specifically a hound toy so care needs to be taken if you are a bit rough with your toys.

It is good fun though when the assistant asks dad if he needs any help & dad had to say he was buying it for his 12 1/2 year old greyhound.

The assistant said they are also good draught excluders so a great multi purpose buy.

He stretches out long & can easily take over your beds. He is about 5ft in length when at full stretch so about the same size as mum.

Just like us hounds though he can curl up small & give you big hugs & keep you warm.

I like to cuddle him mainly but when I think the hoo's ain't watching I will give him a good shake.

I love his bright multi coloured body which compliments my complexion.

I have given mine his own name & he is called Crunchie, like the chocolate bar, which is great for a Rolo.

So what are you all waiting for?

Get your hoo's to get you one today & start cuddling your new friend.
Be quick as stores are selling out fast!

If you are on Instagram you can find loads of #cuddlepillar #cuddlepillarclub fun too.

Thanks
Rolo

THE DAY DOGS BROKE TWITTER

Ok perhaps Twitter was not really broken but it caused loads of issues. It slowed down for many and for some, it even froze up.

So what happened you may ask, well it all started so innocently...

It was the evening of the 19th of March 2018.

A dog (names have been withheld to spare embarrassment) received a tweet from a friend (whose name is also withheld to spare embarrassment) who innocently asked the dog to list 6 emojis that would describe themselves.

The dog thought it was a bit of innocent fun, so replied with their 6 emojis and tagged some other dogs in to join the fun. The dog thought no more of it.

What followed can only be described as utter chaos BOL!

Each friend replied to the tweet, tagging in a few of their dog friends and some humans, who in turn did the same.

So before long everyone was receiving notification for every reply, like, retweet, new tweets.

It got so chaotic at one point a hashtag was even made for the occasion

#TheDayDogsBrokeTwitter

There was the hope it would die down, but some dog along the way tagged a cat, so then there were additional notifications or replies, retweets and new tweets from cats.

Even today there are still notifications being received by dogs that were part of the original tweet.

Although most have muted the conversation.

CRAFTS

March means Crufts, the biggest dog show that I know of.

It is held in the Birmingham National Exhibition Centre.

It has been recorded that over 160,000 humans and 27,000 dogs attend Crufts each year.

A little known fact is that after the show there is around 350kg of fur to clear up. Bet your humans feel better after finding a few of your hairs lying around BOL!

This year it was held on the 8th to the 13th March.

I was unable to attend Crufts but I was able to contact Miss StarHound who did attend.

Thank you Miss StarHound for the interview.

Tell me a bit about yourself

I'm a 9 year old greyhound living in Birmingham with my brother Rolo @RoloHound.

I too have a Twitter account @MissStarhound I like promoting greyhounds at meet and greets and the hounds of Twitter family.

Why did you visit Crufts?

I visited Crufts Thursday 8th March with my hoomans.

It was also my hoodads birthday that day.

My visit was for business as I was on the greyhound stand in the discover dogs section in Hall 3.

I was on the stand getting lots of cuddles from visitors from 08.30-11.00.

More importantly while I gave cuddles the hoomans talked to hoomans that were thinking about homing a greyhound, a man in London and a family in Wales.

Have you been before? If so how many times?

I've been on the discover dogs stand 4 times before.

Each year I get a visit from a lady from Scotland that has a greyhound but likes to get her hound fix whilst at Crufts.

What was your favourite moment of Crufts?

This was definitely chilling out on the sofa at the Greyhound trust stand in Hall 1.

I was tired after discover dogs and then shopping at over 400 doggie shops.

I also found another nice bed on a stall that I made myself comfortable on.

What was your funniest moment at Crufts?

This was when I was being filmed being fed some treats.

It was funny as they took my lead off and my hoomans were having heart failure thinking I was going to run off and do laps of the NEC and cause chaos.

HEALTH - BLOOD DONATIONS

After my interview with Jessie last month I received a lot of questions from readers. So I contacted Pet Blood Bank UK to help me with get those answers.

Tell me a bit about your organisation.

Launched in 2007, Pet Blood Bank UK is the only charity that provides a canine blood bank service for all veterinary practitioners across the UK.

Our products and services are available to all UK veterinary professionals 24 hours a day, 365 days a year ensuring that blood is accessible when it is needed most.

Just like people, sick and injured animals may need blood transfusions and in many cases, blood transfusions can save a pet's life.

Every one of our lifesaving donors makes a huge difference.

With every unit of donated blood having the potential to help save the lives of up to four other dogs.

How long have animals been blood donors?

Pet Blood Bank launched after a change in legislation in 2005 made it possible to collect, process and store pet blood.

Before this, pets could donate blood in emergencies but it wasn't able to be stored – it was just going from one animal straight into another.

The change in law meant that we could launch the UK's first animal blood bank, ensuring that blood is always accessible to vets when they need it without the stress of having to source a donor at short notice.

What animals can give blood? (cats, dogs etc.)

Our license covers dogs and New World Camelids (alpacas) at the moment, however, we are hoping to expand to other species in the future.

Are there different types of blood? (like humans)

Yes, pets have different blood types just like humans. In dogs,

DEA 1 (which stands for Dog Erythrocyte Antigen) is the main blood group that we test for in the UK, and dogs can either be positive or negative. Around 70% of dogs are DEA 1 Positive.

DEA 1 Negative, on the other hand, is less common as only around 30% of dogs are this type, but like O negative in humans, this blood can be given to any dog, so is in much higher demand.

This is why we encourage vets, where possible, to blood type their patients so that positive blood is used where possible, reserving the supply of negative blood for those dogs with a negative blood type that need it.

Can one species give blood to another?

As all animals have unique blood types, blood shouldn't be transferred between species.

How often can animals give blood?

Our canine donors can give blood up to six times a year.

How do animals become blood donors?

We are always looking for more dogs to come forward as lifesaving donors!

In order to become a donor, there are certain criteria a dog needs to meet.

Dogs should be:

- Fit and healthy
- Between one and eight years' old
- Weigh more than 25kg
- Have a good temperament
- Have never travelled abroad
- Vaccinated
- Not on any medication

If your dog meets our criteria, we would love to hear from you.

You can visit our website www.petbloodbankuk.org and fill in our donor registration form, or give us a call on 01509 232 222.

What happens at one of your donation sessions?

Much like the human blood service, owners kindly bring their dogs along to donate at one of our sessions across the UK.

We hold 4-5 sessions a week in different locations throughout the country and work on an appointment system.

Your appointment is split into three key parts:

Pre-donation health check:

this is where your dog is checked over by one of our fully qualified vets.

The check involves a physical examination, the clipping of two small areas of your dog's neck, and a small blood sample which is checked to ensure your dog is fit to donate.

The donation: if your dog passes the initial checks, you will be shown to the donation area where a fully qualified phlebotomist will collect about 450ml of your dog's blood.

This takes 5-10 minutes.

Post-donation:

After donating, we'll ask you to stay at the donation venue for a small amount of time to allow your lifesaver to have a drink, something to eat and to be observed by our team.

Your dog will receive a goody bag which includes an "I'm a Lifesaver" bandana and tag to thank them.

They will also get to pick out a toy to take home and we'll take their picture for our social media pages.

Anything else important I didn't know to ask about?

As mentioned above, negative blood is in high demand and so we are always looking for more negative donors to come forward.

Our studies on blood types have shown that certain breeds are more likely to be negative blood type including:

Weimaraner
German Wirehaired Pointer
Italian Spinone
Flat Coated Retriever
Pointers
Dobermann
Greyhound
Boxers
German Shepherd
Airedale Terrier
Lurcher
American Bulldogs
English Bull Terriers.

OUT AND ABOUT

In the Out and About section of my website I have started listing these places for you. I have made it as easy as I can for you to find things.

All you need to do is to click on the county (or country) and you will see categories along with the number of listing in that category below it. Hopefully saving you time when searching.

As you can see I have used Northumberland as an example.

In future issues of my newspaper I will be focusing on a County (or Country) to bring you as much information about dog friendly places there that I know of.

This is provided free for everyone and you do not need to register or sign up to anything when visiting my website (other than my forum - which is purely to control who posts what and remains family friendly)

After all of that I also need your help pals. I am merely one dog and cannot possibly visit every street, town or city to ensure every dog friendly place or business is listed. So if you know of any dog friendly places or businesses near you please let me know and I can add them to my website to share with everyone. Email me at tigger@tigger.club
